1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C.

121:

- I. Claims 1-5,6-8, drawn to an apparatus with CSCR at particular distance along the axis, classified in class 324, subclass 366.
- II. Claims 9-20, drawn to a resistivity tool with electrodes being mounted on the pad attached to an arm, classified in class 324, subclass 367.
- III. Claims 21-24, drawn to a method for measuring a first voltage and a second voltage for calculating the resistivity of the earth formation, classified in class 324, subclass 369.
- IV. Claims 25-26, drawn to a method to determine invaded zone resistivity, classified in class 324, subclass 369.
- V. Claims 27-30,31-32, drawn to a method to measure a standoff, classified in class 324, subclass 369.

2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I-V are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, inventions have separate utility such as by itself for its intended purpose or different inventive features. Invention I is directed to an apparatus with CSCR at particular distance along the axis; Invention II is directed to a resistivity tool with electrodes being mounted on the pad attached to an arm, a feature not required by the inventions of other groups; Invention III is directed to a method for measuring a first voltage and a second voltage for calculating the resistivity of the earth formation which is not required by the other groups, Invention IV is directed to a method to determine invaded zone resistivity by modeling a tool response from the initial values of standoff distance and Invention V is directed to a method of measuring a standoff by measuring resistivity at different depth behind the wall of the borehole and determining magnitude of standoff from differences of resistivity, a feature not required by the other groups. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

3. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for one group is not required for other group, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

4. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

5. A telephone call was made to Mr. Robert M. Gray on May 18, 2005 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

6. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

7. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Jay M. Patidar whose telephone number is 571-272-2265. The examiner can normally be reached on M-Thur 8:00-6:30.
